

Carbon and Renewable Energy Markets: How do markets and environmental policies aimed at increasing renewable energy (and decreasing greenhouse gases) fit together?

Rob Campbell (Powerex, Director of Environmental Markets) will discuss how markets and environmental policies aimed at increasing renewable energy (and decreasing greenhouse gases) fit together.

Rob has traded energy commodities in Calgary and Vancouver since 1997 and is responsible for all of Powerex's activities in the Renewable Energy and Carbon Markets. Rob is British Columbia's representative on the Electricity Industry Subcommittee of Western Climate Initiative.
